The Mail Ego

By Terrance O'Flaherty

"If Hollywood and the rest of the movie makers are searching for a place to draw the line regarding nudity, may I suggest that they have reached it now?"

I'm not aware that anyone is planning to draw the line. Anthony Newley's new feature titled "Can Helronymous Merkin Forget Mercy Humpe and Find True Happiness?" shows just about everything one might wish to see of Mr. Newley. Perhaps even a little more. Universal is calling it a "sex spoof" in order to show it in the U.S. but Newley says it's frankly erotica. Terrance Stamp's next movie shows the British star unfettered, front and back, with nothing concealed except the soles of his feet. The end is in sight — but it's just the beginning.

"Is the flying Nun married?"

If you mean actress Sally Field, the answer is yes. Her husband Steven Craig is a young writer she met long before she got her TV habit and flying license.

"Why are television programs cancelled?"

Mostly because the 1,100 U.S. families of the Nielsen Audience Rating Company prefer to watch the show on the opposite channel. Sponsors are interested largely in reaching the most number of people per dollar spent, so low ratings mean no sponsors. Next September low ratings will kill these shows: "Star Trek," "Wild Wild West," "M o t h e r - I n - L a w" Jonathan Winters, Jerry Lewis, "The Queen and I," "Gentle Ben," "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," "Gomer Pyle" and "The Outsider." All had poor ratings except "Gomer Pyle" which is being cancelled because its star Jim Nabors wants to host a variety show of his own which will start on CBS in September.

"Where was Glen Campbell born?"

He's the delight of Delight, Ark., pop. 500.

"Last week when my wife and I went to see a new young TV star appear in his night club act he was heckled by some drunk in the audience and I was amazed that he got mad instead of silencing him with a sharp remark. Don't they ever plan ahead for such an emergency?"

Most young performers think it can never happen to them; the veterans know it CAN. It takes real style to tastefully repulse a heckler. George Q. Lewis of the Humor Societies of America suggests the following: "With two heads, how come you always leave the good one home?" "I'd make a fool out of you but it's too late." "With you for a friend, who needs enemies?"

"Where does Katharine Hepburn live?"

In the past year she's been living all over the globe. Her family lives in Hartford, Conn., but she considers homebase to be a townhouse in New York City's Turtle Bay section.

"How many times has Somerset Maugham's novel 'of Human Bondage' been filmed?"

Three times. The first — and best — was in Hollywood in 1934 with Leslie Howard and Bette Davis. A second U.S. version was made in 1946 with Paul Henreid and Eleanor Parker. The most recent was a British production in 1964 with Laurence Harvey and Kim Novak.

"Who wrote the theme song for 'The Monkees' on TV?"

Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart who also managed to write 300 songs in the past four years including most of those sung by The Monkees. Boyce and Hart are now singing their own.
